LOWER EXPRESS RATES TO COME

Gettysburg Patrons of the Express Companies to Share in Benefits of a General Decline in Rates. Some Figures Shown.

Gettysburg will share in the revolutionary changes, designed to meet the competition of the government through the parcel post system, which will go into effect in all the offices of the various express companies operating in the United States on February 1. The division of the country into blocks modeled somewhat upon the zone system used by the parcel post system, with cuts in rates, in some cases to half of the former amount, a flat rate established to all points, and abolishment of the "minimum charge" system are among the most important features.

How the changes vary here between the new and the old is indicated by the comparisons in the following tables:

To Baltimore from Gettysburg.

	Old	New
One pound	.25	.21
Two pounds	.25	.22
Three pounds	.25	.23
Four pounds	.30	.23
Five pounds	.30	.24
Twenty pounds	.35	.37

To Philadelphia from Gettysburg

	Old	New
One pound	.25	.25
Two pounds	.30	.22
Three pounds	.30	.22
Four pounds	.35	.23
Five pounds	.40	.24
Twenty pounds	.50	.36

To New York from Gettysburg

	Old	New
One pound	.25	.22
Two pounds	.30	.22
Three pounds	.35	.23
Four pounds	.40	.24
Five pounds	.45	.25

To Chicago from Gettysburg

	Old	New
One pound	.25	.22
Two pounds	.35	.24
Three pounds	.45	.26
Four pounds	.55	.28
Five pounds	.60	.30

It will be noticed that there is a slight increase in the twenty pound rate between Gettysburg and Baltimore. On the heavier packages generally there is a small raise in rates for short hauls.

To western points the old rate is almost cut in half while in other cases drastic reductions have been made. Second class rates are one-fourth less than the first class rates.

Charges on the new system are based on the airline and block systems. Instead of taking the distance by rail in figuring the cost of routing the distance by the air line is used.

These changes will affect every company doing business in the United States. There is also an innovation which will doubtless prove to be extremely popular. Regardless of how many companies have to handle a package on the way to its destination a flat rate, the same as if it were carried by only one company, is set. Prior to this time the charges were fixed on the rates of both companies.

"Minimum rates" in practically all articles except bread, cake, ice cream, and the like are abolished under the new rates.

While not announced as such, the rates are an evident attempt to meet the parcel post competition along certain lines. The rates are about the same as the parcel post rates in some cases and in those from Gettysburg, to some points west, the express is below the parcel post rate.

The party assembled shortly before eleven o'clock, the hour at which the ceremony was performed on January 17, 1889. It took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Howard, the bride being Miss Annie Howard. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Sollenberger, the United Brethren pastor. He died ten years ago. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Howard, a sister of the bride. She is now Mrs. Charles Wolf and lives near York Springs. LAST DAYS

Election Dates of Importance during the Present Year.

Those interested in election matters will be concerned in the "last days" for this year. The dates to bear in mind are:

Primary election, May 19, and general election, November 3. The first day for securing signatures on petitions for nominations is Feb. 21. The last day for filing such petitions is April 21. The last day for filing nomination papers, September 29. Last day to be assessed, September 2. Last day to pay tax, October 3. Last day for candidates to withdraw before primary, April 24 at 4 p. m. Last day for filing primary expense accounts, June 3. Last day for general election expense accounts, December 3.

One of the interesting things about the election this year is that it will be the first time that the people have been called upon to nominate United States senatorial candidates and then elect them by popular vote. The Supreme Court justices will also be nominated by popular vote, although it will be on a nonpartisan ballot for the first time. The year bids fair to be as productive of interesting things in the way of "first times" as it will be of political situations out of the ordinary.

FATALLY BURNED

Woman was Placing Light for Parent when She Fell.

With her body burned from the feet to the hips and her clothing still afire, Gertrude McLeer, aged 25 years, of Bowmansdale, was found Friday evening by her aged father, lying on the kitchen floor in an unconscious condition. An exploded oil lamp lay smoking at her side.

After extinguishing the flames the father called for aid and summoned a physician, but his daughter never regained consciousness. She died early Saturday morning. It was the custom for the daughter to set a lamp in the window for her father, who reached home shortly before 7 o'clock in the evening. It is believed that the young woman either tripped over a rug or fell in a faint, and that the lamp exploded.

DEER INJURING ORCHARD TREES

Fruit Growers on the Mountain Claim that the Deer are Resulting in Much Damage to their Peach and Apple Trees.

What is a man to do with a lot of deer that are destroying his property? At this season it is unlawful to kill the deer, no difference how much destruction they may be doing.

This is a proposition that Mr. J. H. Ledy is against at his large peach orchards near Mont Alto. The deer have been coming down from the mountain in large numbers and are stripping his peach and apple trees. All through the orchards can be seen the foot prints of the animals where they have operated at night. They have also been driven from the orchards in day time. They eat the buds and limbs as high up as they can reach by standing on their rear legs. The destruction has been very great as the deer are most abundant.

Mr. Ledy will take up the matter with Game Commissioner Kalbfus and ascertain if anything can be done. Mr. Ledy has his orchards all fenced but every hunter knows that a deer can jump any such protection. Other fruit growers on the mountain report the same condition and do not know how to meet it.

Mr. Ledy has also had great trouble from rabbits but he has succeeded in killing off a good many of them.

MORE STATE ORCHARDS

Dr. Surface has Arranged to Extend State Service.

Over 1,000 orchards in all parts of Pennsylvania will be placed under the official eye of the State within the next few months and it is the belief of State Zoologist H. A. Surface, who is in charge of this work, that it will result in a notable increase in the value of the fruit crop in half a decade. It is the plan to extend the State supervision of orchards and to double the number of places where demonstrations of scientific methods of controlling orchard pests are given.

For five years the State has had at its disposal 300 orchards where lectures on horticulture and demonstrations of spraying, pruning and other work were given by demonstrators and inspectors of the department, and 700 orchards, known as supervision orchards, where the State supervised the work on the trees in return for these orchards being open for inspection by the public. Through the increased allowances for the orchard work Dr. Surface has arranged to increase the number of demonstration orchards to over 600, distributed through every county and to start the lectures this year, and to extend the supervision over about 700 additional orchards.

RAGGED HORDE REACH MARFA

U. S. Troops Outnumbered 10 to 1 by Mexican Captives.

MARCH FULL OF INCIDENT

It is the First Time American Army
Has Been Called on to Shelter, Feed and Clothe an Entire Division of a Foreign Army.

Marfa, Tex., Jan. 19.—Footsore, ragged, almost famished from their three days' march on foot for sixty-seven miles over a wind-swept mountain road, the 3300 Mexican Federal soldiers and generals routed from Ojin-aga, Mex., by the rebels, with 1067 women and about 300 children and infants, arrived within a few miles of Marfa, whence they are to be transported by train to Fort Bliss, at El Paso.

The ragged remnant of the Huerta
army, which sought asylum in this country rather than face possible extermination by the rebels, will be formally interned at Fort Bliss as wards of the government. They are to be held there indefinitely on the footing
of prisoners of war.

It will be the first time the American army has been called on to shelter, feed and clothe an entire division of a foreign army, which includes six disarmed generals.

None of them in the unique caravan, which, with its disarmed Mexican soldiers, women, children, horses, bur-ros and dogs, struggled for miles along the road, was more visibly affected on coming within sight of Marfa than General Salvador Mercado, Huerta's former military chief, who ordered the evacuation of Ojinaga in face of the rebels' fire.

General Mercado, riding on a horse,
his uniform covered with dust, was confessingly humiliated not only at the defeat of his army and the necessity for his flight to foreign soil but also because of a report from Mexico City that he would be court martialed if he should ever return to his native country.

Beside General Mercado and mingling with the United States cavalrymen who acted as guards, were the Federal Generals Castro, Aduna, Landa, Orpinal and Romero, all of them shorn of their swords, but some of them still retaining on their uniforms
the bits of gold braid which had not been torn off or worn away in their flight from Ojinaga.

The picturesque march on foot through American territory of so many sorely tried soldiers and women with their baggage abounded with incident.

The birth of a child, the death of several wounded soldiers, the search for water in the desert, the constant straggling away from the line of march and the rounding up again of scores of the refugees were some of the difficulties with which the United States cavalrymen, commanded by Major McNamee,
had to contend.

The Mexicans, guarded virtually as prisoners, outnumbered the escorting
American soldiers ten to one.

Viewed from a hill top the on-coming army as it zig-zagged through the mountain passes and reached backward into the dusty distance ten miles away, was a picture of exhaustion, although the prospect of soon reaching the railroad and ample supplies of rations seemed to revive fresh courage.

The picturesqueness of the march was increased by the fact that the soldiers were carrying their baggage on their backs, and the women were carrying their children on their backs, and the men were carrying their weapons on their backs.

The march was a long and hard
one, and the soldiers were very tired and hungry when they reached Marfa.

REPRESENTATIVE MOON.

Congressman Defies Mr. Wilson
In Postoffice Regulations.

Defiance of President Wilson's disapproval of the clause in the postoffice appropriation bill exempting all the 2400 assistant postmasters from civil service was voiced in the house by Representative J. A. Moon, of Pennsylvania, Democratic chairman of the post office committee. He attacked the American diplomatic corps as "a superfluous appendage to the republic" and
"a gang of political robbers and society degenerates that we ought to wipe out of existence." Mr.
Moon said he had received a letter from Postmaster General Burleson saying the president did not approve the section regarding assistant post masters.

SHIP'S CREW HELPLESS IN GALE, RESCUED

Thirteen Taken From Ice-Coated and Sinking Ship.

Baltimore, Jan. 19.—Rescued from their ice-coated, sinking ship after they had given up all hope, the thirteen members of the crew of the fivemasted schooner Fuller Palmer, arrived in Baltimore on board the Donaldson line steamer Marina.

The rescue was made by the Marina early last Thursday morning when she was about 154 miles southeast of Cape Cod.

The men rescued are: Captain O. W.
Clarke, Boston; First Mate James
Rabe, Norway; Second Mate Albert
Gould, Nova Scotia; Engineer William Buchanan, Cape Breton, and the negro crew.

Since last Sunday morning, when the gale which swept the Atlantic coast had so battered the schooner that she began to leak, the crew had fought to keep her afloat. With sails whipped into shreds by the wind and rigging broken and so coated with ice that it could not be handled, the Fuller Palmer had practically drifted at the mercy of the raging seas.

Day and night the men labored at the pumps trying to keep down the ever-increasing water, as the awful pounding opened the seams and the leaks grew larger. Tons of water flooded her decks, and, turning to ice, added to the unwieldiness of the vessel.

On Wednesday night, with all hope of making any port gone, and fearful that their vessel would sink at any minute as the giant waves tossed her about, distress signals were sent up.

Shortly before five o'clock Thursday morning a rocket shot up some miles away, showing that at last their signals had been noticed. Until daylight the Marina stood by and then, as the seas had somewhat moderated, several boats were lowered and the crew was taken aboard.

TO PAINT WILSON'S PORTRAIT

Will Be Hung In Place of Honor In Virginia University.

Washington, Jan. 19.—A portrait of President Wilson, full length and life size, will soon hang in the place of honor upon the walls of one of the main buildings of his alma mater, the University of Virginia, from which he was graduated in the school of law in 1881.

The alumni society of the university has given the commission for painting the portrait to Richard N. Brooke, a prominent artist of Washington and himself a native of Virginia, who re-

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 19.—John C.
Koons, a grocer of Dundee, who died

of Koons' grocery store the administrator discovered, tucked away in barrels, boxes, old crockery and bins, cash, notes and bonds amounting to $40,000. The search is being continued.

WOULD PROHIBIT HOLDING COS.

President Wilson to Ask Congress to Bar Them.

READS MESSAGE TOMORROW

He Favors Supervision of Railroad
Securities Through Interstate Commerce Commission.

Washington, Jan. 19.—Prohibition of holding companies, prohibition of interlocking directorates and a stronger anti-trust law, are the features of President Wilson's trust message, which will be read to both houses of congress tomorrow.

The president has left to congress
the task of framing the detailed remedies. Besides the provision for an interstate trade commission and reduction of the "debtable area" of the Sherman law, three hitherto unannounced features of the president's plan are:

1. Prohibition of holding companies.
Corporations would be forbidden to own or hold shares or be interested in the business of actual competitors or cognate concerns; and the acquisition of stock or interests in non-competitive concerns would be possible only with the consent of the interstate commerce commission or the proposed interstate trade commission.

2. Empowering the interstate commerce commission to regulate and superintend the issuance of securities by the railroads so that the public would exercise, through the commission, a certain control over the future uses to which the money obtained from the issue of stocks or bonds would be put.

3. Whenever, at the instance of the government, either in civil or criminal proceedings, the courts have rendered judgment on the unlawfulness of any combination, individuals or concerns aggrieved through the combination would have the benefit of such adjudication and not be required in their suits to prove again the illegality of the combination.

The president has dealt with those general principles on which he believes public sentiment is agreed that correction is necessary.

He has emphasized that the spirit of friendliness rather than of hostility should characterize the method of approaching the work of reform.

To this end the president himself is behind the announcement of public hearings on the proposed bills.

The president has made it plain to Chairman Clayton, of the house judiciary committee, that the business world should have full opportunity to express its views.

The president is anxious, too, that in the legislation ample time should be given in all cases for business to adjust itself to the new conditions, even to a period of from one to two years.

In line with the idea that public opinion is more or less agreed on certain principles, the president considers the prohibition of holding companies a vital part of the program.

The supervision of the issuance of railroad securities is to be recommended by the administration in the belief that railroad capitalization and the issuance of stocks and securities is closely followed with increases or decreases in rates, and that, through the interstate commerce commission,
the public would be safeguarded.

Recent speeches by railroad officials to the effect that such regulations would be welcomed is taken as evidence by the administration that such regulation would meet with general satisfaction.

UNJUST SPANKING WORTH $500

Father, In Will, Expresses Regret to Son.

Freehold, N. J., Jan. 19.—It was worth $500 to suffer an unjust spanking at the hands of his father years ago, Frederick Crum, Jr., has just discovered.

In the will of his father, just admitted to probate, with his mother as executrix, he is left $2000, while his two sisters are bequeathed $1500 each.
The balance of the estate is left to the widow.

After specifying the cash bequests,
Crum in his will, made nine years ago,
wrote: "The reason I give more to my son is that one time I gave him an unjust spanking, which I have always regretted."

CLERGYMAN NABS MAN

Costless and Hatless, Rev. Charles H.
Elder Catches Alleged Assailant.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 19.—Rev. Charles H. Elder is an athlete. He gets out and plays base ball with the men and boys of his church and is always warming
a seat on the bleachers, where he acts loudly as critic at every base ball game that comes to Trenton.

Saturday he ran a hundred yard
dash in almost record time to catch William Daly, who, his daughter told the minister, had just tried to steal Joseph J. McCarthy in front of the Salvation Army headquarters, opposite the Elder home.

The minister jumped to the door,
out into the street, without hat or an overcoat, and grabbed Daly after a hundred yard sprint. Policemen could not keep up with the two, but arrived after the minister had collared the man.

No knife was found on Daly and Mc-Carthy had not been stabbed, although he believed that he had. He said he knew Daly was wanted for an alleged robbery in Waterbury, Conn.; that he had accused him of it and that this brought on the assault which ended with the minister nabbing Daly. Daly has been locked up.

PUNCHES BY PRIEST BREAK FOUR RIBS

Thrashes Man Who Turned Family Out of House.

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 19.—John Cavanaugh, who was given a severe beating when he attempted to attack
Rev. John Lynch at his home on Lancaster pike, will not be able "to get around" for three or four weeks, according to his physician, Dr. J. Harvey Spruance. Rev. Mr. Lynch said Cavanaugh tried to use a knife.

The priest, who is assistant pastor of St. Thomas' Catholic church, after wrenching the knife from his assailant, proceeded to give him a whipping
the like of which Cavanaugh had never experienced in his life before.

Among other injuries Cavanaugh received four fractured ribs and a wound over the left eye. He told his physician that he thought he had been struck by a trolley, so painful were his injuries.

The clerical exponent of muscular Christianity had hurried to Cavanaugh's home on learning that the man had driven his wife and four children out into the cold. The priest had no more than entered the house when the man, it is alleged, made a lunge at him with the knife.

WILD HOGS IN BLUE RIDGE

Vicious Beasts Attack Hunters and Bring on Lively Battle.

Luray, Va., Jan. 19.—Wild hogs of a vicious type have been discovered in the Blue Ridge section of this county.

A hunting party composed of Lelon
Taylor, William Berry and Lee Berry, a few days ago had a desperate encounter with a drove of them near the headwaters of the Hawksbill, about twelve or fifteen miles from Luray.
The hogs attacked the hunters, bringing shotguns and rifles to be brought into use.

After some of the hogs had been killed the men gathered recruits and started in pursuit of the rest, chasing them through the mountains about fifteen miles to the Madison county line, where others were killed after a desperate battle.

The weight of the hogs runs from 150 to 250 pounds. They are supposed to have degenerated from the domestic breeds that at one time were put in the mountains by farmers.

THE PRODUCTION OF HOGS

To produce pork profitably
hogs must feed and graze continuously on pastures and crops particularly planted for them, is the advice of experts of the farmers' co-operative branch of the bureau of plant industry, department of agriculture. Very seldom is the growing of hogs
for slaughter a source of profit unless proper grazing and feeding methods are followed.

In the spring, summer and fall
there are many crops for pasturing hogs, but during the winter
the crops to select from are limited. On almost every farm the production and keeping of hogs in winter is expensive and generally it is not profitable, for the reason that large quantities of corn are fed without products of green crops. More winter grazing is needed, for which many crops are adapted. The most reliable are, however, rape,
rye, oats, wheat and barley.

For grazing purposes these pasturing crops for hogs should be sown on specially well drained and prepared land that is either rich or has received a liberal application of manure. Good winter pasturage is not obtained except on the best drained lands.

The seeding should be heavy
to insure a thorough planting.
The young plants will grow slowly in the winter and many plants will be needed to furnish plenty of pasture. Crimson clover will do well with rape, rye, oats, wheat and barley and will mean an improvement on the land.

FATHER BACK WITH GIRL ELOPER

Delilah Bradley Returns to Pemberton, N. J.

DROP CHARGES AGAINST HER

Leaves Joel Foster, in Mobile, Unaware of Her Departure Until After She Was Gone.

Philadelphia, Jan. 19.—Sixteen-year-old Delilah Bradley, who eloped with Joel M. Foster, poultryman, arrived at her home in Pemberton, N. J., yesterday.

Miss Bradley, who left Mobile, Ala., at 1:42 o'clock Saturday, was accompanied by her father, Harry C. Bradley. According to advices from Mobile, Ala., Foster, who is out on bail pending arraignment for violation of the Mann white slave act, was unaware of the girl's departure until she had left Mobile.

Even had been notified of the girl's intention of leaving with her father, Foster could have done nothing to prevent her departure, since one of the stipulations in permitting him freedom under bail was that he would make no attempt to meet or to communicate with the girl.

Miss Bradley's action in leaving Mobile with her parent has resulted, it is believed, in the decision of the authorities to drop the charge against her. Until her father's arrival the girl was held on a charge of violating a statute of the state.

Whether an understanding between the girl and the authorities regarding the part the girl will play in the trial of the poultryman has been reached is problematical. Neither the authorities nor Miss Bradley care to discuss this question.

One thing, however, is certain. The girl consented to accompany her father home only after he had pleaded with her for hours. Miss Bradley at first would not listen to the suggestion that she leave the man with whom she had eloped to Mobile. Under the importunities of the government officials and the insistent pleading of her father, the girl broke down and was sent to the hospital.

Her determination to cling to Foster relaxed while under treatment at the hospital, where she was suffering from nervous prostration. After having partly recovered the girl evinced a disposition to listen to her father's advice, and finally, when his bond was substituted for that which friends of the girl had put up for her, Miss Bradley consented to go to her home in Pemberton.

The girl was taken from the hospital on Friday and arraigned in the court. She was taken there in an ambulance.

Joel Foster maintains that he will get a divorce and marry the girl, who was a Sunday school teacher in Pemberton, and who was also employed by Foster as his stenographer.

The couple disappeared on Dec. 17. The pair lived together as husband and wife at a fashionable Mobile hotel, and they were received in the best of society. Foster will fight the charge of violation of the Mann act on the ground that there was no commercialism or "white slavery" involved in their relations.

BURNED HIS MOTHER'S BARN

Apprehended Under Assumed Name, Dodging Son Confesses.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 19.—After searching for a month, Joel H. Dietrich, aged twenty-five, wanted for arson in connection with the burning of his widowed mother's barn in Albany township, was apprehended by Sergeant Harry Merriman, of the state constabulary, at Oakbrook, a suburb, where he was employed under the assumed name of John Hendrick.

In default of $2000 bail he was committed to jail, and he confessed to the burning. Dietrich, who had differences with his mother, Mrs. Henry S. Dietrich, had made threats.

The entire barn and its contents, including seventeen head of cattle and two horses, were destroyed, entailing a loss of over $9000.

Admits Scranton Murder.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 19.—Frank Berleske, of Ravensdale, near this city, confessed to the marshal here that he killed John Mickus with an axe in Scranton, Pa., sixteen years ago. He said his conscience troubled him. The chief of police of Scranton was notified and he requested that Berleske be held. Berleske named Samuel Norris, who was charged with the murder and acquitted, as his accomplice.

Pottsville, Pa., Jan. 19.—Frank Shutt, a rigger employed by the Reading Coal and Iron company, slipped while walking on the roof of the engine house of the Eagle Hill colliery, rolled off the roof and dropped forty-two feet, landing on a pile of bricks. Death was almost instantaneous.

GUARD ASSAILANT IN DELAWARE JAIL

Negro Who Attacked Woman on Delaware Farm Arrested.

Dover, Del., Jan. 19.—Clarence Simmons, the colored farm hand on the Townsend farm, tenanted by Morris Buckworth, near Summit Bridge, who attacked Mrs. Buckworth while in the house with her one-year-old baby on Friday last, and who escaped, was captured by Constable William Boyer and Smyrna's town officer, Cochran, on the Benjamin Hazel farm, about five miles southeast of Smyrna.

When captured Simmons was sitting by a stove warming himself after an all-night tramp. He offered no resistance to arrest, and when accused of his alleged crime, admitted his guilt, at the same time making light of the affair.

The colored man was handcuffed and taken to Smyrna, where he was placed in the town lock-up, with a guard until he is taken to New Castle for a hearing.

The officers, fearing violence to Simmons if it was generally known that he had been captured, kept the matter secret. Simmons claims New York as his home and is but twenty-four years of age.

BOY SLAYS FOSTER SISTER

Declares She Was Shot in Trying to Take Gun From Him.

Easton, Pa., Jan. 19.—Josephine Yutz, twelve years old, was shot and instantly killed by John Harrison, sixteen years old, on the farm of Edward Transue, at Haxenkoph, near here.

Both the girl and the boy were former inmates of the Easton Home for Friendless Children. They were legally adopted by Transue several years ago.

According to Harrison, the girl had scolded him for shooting at cats and attempted to take the gun from him. In the struggle, he says, the weapon was discharged.

STOP SMOKING IN MINES

Coal Companies Take Steps to Prevent Loss of Life.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 19.—Prompted by the action of the railroad companies in prohibiting the use of liquor by employees as a safeguard against accident, the coal companies are taking a step to prevent loss of life and property by issuing orders prohibiting smoking in the mines.

The companies are going a step further by not allowing an employee to enter sections of the mine where the safety lamps have to be used while carrying matches or other means of ignition with them.

Two Dies in Mine Mishap.

Punxsutawney, Pa., Jan. 19.—Arthur Solway and Frank Huber, miners, were instantly killed in a fall of rock at the No. 3 mine of the Rochester & Pittsburgh Coal and Iron company, at Eleonora, near here. Fourteen tons of rock dropped. A large rescue force recovered the bodies three hours later.

Medical Advertising For Chronic Coughs

Milton, Pa., Woman Has Found a Remedy.

Mrs. Howard Wagner, of Milton, Pa., says: "I had a bad cold for months, and would cough every night until midnight. I consulted a doctor and took two kinds of medicine but got no relief. Vinol was recommended and after taking it a week I could sleep all night without coughing once. I continued its use and now have a fine appetite, never feel better and my cough is entirely gone."

It is a well-known fact that when a person is run-down, stomach out of order, or the system overloaded with waste matter, vital resistance is lowered and colds and coughs are easily contracted.

The safest and surest method we know to overcome this condition is by taking our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol. In the most natural manner Vinol tones up the digestive organs, promotes a hearty appetite, enriches the blood, and as a specific for chronic coughs, colds and bronchial troubles Vinol is unexcelled.

Try a bottle of Vinol on our offer to return your money if it fails to help you. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.

Easy To Darken Your Gray Hair

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy."

You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger.

A COAT IN DROP-SHOULDER STYLE

Tunics are becoming to nearly every figure unless it be short and unusually stout, and even then there are styles of the tunic that would be becoming, so it is deservedly popular. These tunics, or overskirts are long or short, draped or pointed and often they are merely applied bands cleverly arranged to look like an overskirt. All is fair this season as long as the effect is obtained.

No. 8084 is an attractive example of the applied circular trimming band, which gives the effect of a tunic. The smartly draped sash adds to the impression. For this costume tunic of negre bengaline is used with trimmings of the same colored satin.

It requires 4 3/4 yards of 36 inch material to copy this gown in size 36. The drop-shoulder is a fashion feature favored by almost every one. It gives a smart air to the simplest frock or suit and is, as a rule, becoming.

In this instance (8080) it appears on a coat. Black velvet cushions the suit, and the collar and cuffs are of ermine.

To copy this coat (8080) in size 36 it requires 2 1/2 yards of 42 inch material. The skirt (7807) requires 2 1/2 yards of 36, 40 or 54 inch material, without up and down, for any size.

No. 8084—sizes 34 to 42. No. 8080—sizes 34 to 42. No. 7807—sizes 22 to 30. Each pattern 15 cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and enclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust. Address Pattern Department, care of this paper.

THE HAND OF FATHER TIME

Love's Young Dream Has a Rude Awakening.

"Stranger, might I ask what time it'll be when we get to Millville?" "Five-fifteen," I replied. Looking behind me, I saw a man who appeared to be about fifty years old. He was thin, with a few white hairs on his head, and he was looking at me with a curious expression. He was by no means fitted, or was approaching some crisis in his life. I could not tell. I encouraged him to talk, and he did so.

Twenty-five years before he had been killed. He had gone to the gold regions and made a fortune. Recently learning that his former love was single, he had renewed his proposition of a quarter of a century before. The woman had returned a prompt acceptance, and he was going to his home to be made happy after so many years of waiting. He opened a card and took from a soiled roll of papers a card photograph. It was the saucy face of a pretty girl of eighteen.

"That she is, stranger; that's Mahuldy. I've kept that picture by me ever since I left her, and she wrote me that one of me taken about the same time, had been on the parlor mantel, where she could see it every day. In her last letter she warmed up over it, saying she was looking anxiously for that black mustache that round cheek, that raven locks she'd known years ago."

The man's mustache was a yellow gray, his cheek a furrowed leather, and on the top of his head stood a few scattered hairs like timber on a mountain that had been swept by fire. I looked from him to the likeness of his early love, and it occurred to me that the same changes had doubtless occurred in her.

"My friend," I said, "do you think you will know the lady when you meet her?"

"Sartin. Dye suppose I could ever forget that purty face?" "I would like to bet you a tenner that you won't know her."

He dived into his pocket, drew forth a fat roll of bills, and wetting his thumb, selected a ten dollar bill, which he handed to me. Then I arranged with him to send for his fiancée to come to the hotel. We agreed to stop at, and he was to leave her among other women. He gave me his name, Mark Spellbinder, while his betrothed was Mahuldy Ralls. After Mr. Spellbinder and I had reached the hotel I mailed a note to Miss Ralls, saying that if she would call at the hotel that evening a friend of her lover would give her information of him.

About 8 o'clock I was informed that a lady wished to see me in the parlor. I found a very fat person, with grizzly gray hair—what there was of it—the front teeth decayed and a look of chronic dissatisfaction on her face.

"Miss Ralls, I believe?" "Yes, sir, Miss Ralls. What ye got to tell me 'bout Mark Spellbinder?"

"He is here in this house. He wishes to know if you will recognize him."

"Recognize him? Why not?" "He's older, you know."

"So am I, but I hope I'm not a fright."

I whispered to a waiter to tell Mr. Spellbinder to come in. There were several people in the room, including a girl of twenty-five. Before Spellbinder arrived I purposely left Miss Ralls and walked to a fireplace. The groom expectant came in and looked inquiringly about him. If his eye touched Miss Ralls, it did not remain upon her for more than a moment. Then, after taking in several women, it rested on the young lady. It had been arranged between him and me that he was to leave the room without giving any evidence of having made a selection.

As soon as he was gone I returned to Miss Ralls and after a brief chat on unimportant matters told her that her lover had been in the room.

"Then, here—in this room? I don't believe it. Only one man has come in since I've been here, and he was an old codger, bald as a root and with cheeks like a new plowed field."

"That was he. I feared you wouldn't recognize him." And without waiting for more words I excused myself and joined Mr. Spellbinder.

"Well, did you pick her out?" I asked.

"Yess, he said, with a sigh. "She hasn't near so purty as she was, but she's kind of nice anyway."

"Which one was it?"

"The girl by the window."

"You're mistaken. Miss Ralls sat in the far corner."

"Wh-a-t! The fat old cat with snaggle teeth?"

"You shouldn't speak so disrespectfully of the woman you are to marry."

He looked bewildered. Several times he started to say something, but failed to get it out. At last he took out the card photograph I had seen once before and handed it to me.

"Mistaken," he said, "I feel kinder 's trovud, somethin' 's goin' to happen to me. If somethin' 's givin' that to Mahuldy."

He turned and walked away. I returned to the parlor. Miss Ralls had vanished.

The next morning I learned that Mr. Spellbinder had taken an early train for the west. I sent a messenger with the bill he had left to Miss Ralls—I counted $2,999—then took the train for home. I have never heard of either the man or the woman since.

General Dry Goods Department Store

We have not for some years advertised a White Goods Sale in JANUARY the time when City stores usually advertise these lines very extensively and in which they offer seemingly great bargains and yet we have always done extra business in this department because of our values - both in made up Underwear and Piece Goods of every character.

The usual city advertisement exploiting these lines is misleading for the reason that comparative values would lead the average reader to believe that there has been a reduction of regular prices special for these sales.

Our purchase of Under Muslins was made months ago when Muslins and Long Cloths were less in price than they have been since. Garments were made for regular stock, not for a Special Sale, priced on the basis of right buying and we are willing to compare values with any store - city or elsewhere.

A large selection of every character in Gows, Skirts, Drawers, Bloomers, Corset covers, Combinations &c.

In Piece Goods...

We anticipated our January wants, also the probable advance in prices of Cotton Goods and made our contracts months ago to make this saving - which is now yours.

Special Values in Long Cloths,

Cambrics, Lingerie Crepes, Check Cambrics & Lawns,

Sheetings, Pillow Tubing & Muslins, Sheets, Pillow Cases &c.

Counterpanes from $1.00 to $4.00 (from 25 cents to $1.00 under present market)

A TRUE STORY

A certain razor has built up a large sale and a National reputation through newspaper advertising. It has been sold at a fixed price and the public has come to regard it as well worth the price asked.

Following last Spring's decision of the Supreme Court some dealers began cutting the price of this particular article—using it as an advertisement.

Now, curiously enough, not a few of the price-cutting stores found they sold fewer razors at a cut price than before. On the other hand, stores that maintained the price found an increased demand.

"People want to know what is wrong with it when we offer this article at a cut price," one storekeeper told the writer.

It was true that the splendid newspaper advertising coupled with the fact that it was a good article had practically standardized the price in the minds of the public.

There is food for thought in this situation for other manufacturers.
